GONFALONS*

The gonfalon is a type of heraldic banner, often pointed and suspended from a crossbar similar to the ancient Roman vexillum, a square, flag-like banner that was used in the Roman military. Constructed of rough linen cloth with a fringe at the bottom, it was a symbol of the fighting unit, revered in some units more than others. Gonfalons were later used by religious communities—especially by Christian denominations during the Medieval period.

With the rise of the Renaissance and Enlightenment periods, gonfalons were gradually adopted by educational institutions and are used in both religious and educational communities to this day. In the education sector, gonfalons are used during commencement ceremonies to represent the different schools, disciplines and degrees within an institution.

ELISA FORD '12

*Talent Acquisition Executive, Southeastern Pennsylvania
Transportation Authority (SEPTA)*

*Assistant Coach, Track and Field,
Delaware County Community College*

Delaware County Community College is the catalyst that propelled Elisa Ford back on track into professional and personal paths for which she has great passion, impact, and gratitude. Today, as a SEPTA talent acquisition executive, DCCC track and field coach/athlete, and in all her endeavors, she is the spark who delivers productive and meaningful service across many platforms.

In 2022, Elisa was hired by SEPTA, where she manages recruiting and hiring and provides expertise for SEPTA skilled trade operations. She sits on SEPTA's Culture and Belonging Council, co-chairs the Employee Preparedness Training & Development Committee, and serves on advisory boards for skilled trade training for DCCC and other schools. Previously, she was a community liaison for Delaware County, a regional recruiter and partnership specialist for the U.S. Census Bureau, a human resource director for Taylor Healthcare, and a corporate analyst manager for the U.S. Department of Defense.

In 2000, Elisa enrolled in a DCCC nursing class, left for a decade, but returned to earn an Associate in Applied Science in General Studies in 2012. She later earned a Bachelor of Arts/Sciences (magna cum laude) in Biblical Studies from Lancaster Bible College and is finishing her Master's in Nonprofit Organization Management there. Soon, she will start a Ph.D. program in Biblical Studies at Queens College of Theology.

While attending DCCC, Elisa was Phi Theta Kappa honor society vice president, played on the basketball team, earned President's List honors, and received a Wong Moss scholarship. She once spent two years at Arizona State University on scholarship but took ill and had to come home. She loves track and field, and in 2019 participated in the National Senior Games in Albuquerque, NM, and expects to compete again this July.

A 2008 graduate of the Berean Institute in Philadelphia, Elisa is a licensed cosmetologist. Each summer, she operates a mobile salon, visiting communities providing back-to-school hair styling and haircuts to youth. She also is an outreach manager and transformation coordinator at Christian Fellowship Community Church in Philadelphia. She also was once an assistant basketball coach at Lincoln University and an assistant coach for the Yeadon Track Club and The Shipley School.

Elisa and her husband of 33 years, McDonald E. Ford, have eight children, including a son who is a DCCC graduate.

EXPLANATION OF THE COLLEGE SEAL

The seal of Delaware County Community College was designed in 1968 as a symbolic representation of the College's primary goal to provide post-high school education to the youth and adults of Delaware County. Since 1967 when the College was founded, the mission has expanded to serve Chester County residents.

The history of the College is represented in the graphic identity of the seal. The name of the College is on the outside of the seal. Four points of the compass, pointing outward, provide direction for the College in offering higher educational opportunities to residents throughout the region.

The lamp in the center of the seal represents the purpose for which the College was founded—education—which serves as a light to show the way to a more enriching life for each individual. Beneath the lamp is the motto of the College: Community Service Through Education. The wavy lines below the motto represent the Delaware River, bordering Delaware County on the east.

The scroll is designed in the traditional manner, representing the rich historical traditions of the county. Within the scroll are two branches, standing for the 13 members of the College's Board of Trustees and the President. The "1967" in the crossing of the branches indicates the year the College was founded.

The seal is royal blue and gold, which are the colors of both the College and the county. The College purposely adopted the colors of Delaware County to emphasize the fact that it was originally established for the residents of Delaware County.

Seal design by Karl Owen, Assistant Professor of Art, 1968.

THE ACADEMIC TRADITION

The academic costume worn today originated in the universities of the Middle Ages, when a warm gown and hood were useful for scholar and cleric in unheated buildings. The distinctive gown served to set the student apart from his fellow citizens, hence the perennial controversy between “town and gown.”

Until after the Civil War, students at most American universities wore caps and gowns daily while in residence. These varied in design until they were standardized by the American Intercollegiate Commission in 1894. At that time, it was decided that all robes would be black; bachelors’ gowns to be made of worsted stuff with pointed sleeves; masters’ gowns of silk with long closed sleeves; doctors’ gowns of silk with longer sleeves and faced with black velvet from hem to neck and back. They also carried three velvet bands around each sleeve above the elbow.

Hoods were made of the same materials as the gowns, the length varying with the degree. Only the lining of the hood indicated the university by its colors. The border of the hood indicated the academic discipline in which the degree was earned.

In the last few years, many colleges and universities have decided to return to a distinctive gown design. For instance, Columbia’s gown is now slate gray. The doctoral gown, with facing of black velvet, has sleeve bands in the color of the wearer’s discipline. Columbia’s gown is embroidered in slate gray on the black velvet facing at chest height. The mortarboard has been replaced with a soft black velvet tam with a gold tassel.

Throughout the United States, there has been no change in the standard colors that represent the disciplines. The color facing the hood, whether it is black or colored, indicates the following: white: arts and letters, including journalism; scarlet: theology; purple: law; green: medicine; yellow: science; brown: architecture and the fine arts; pink: music; lilac: dentistry; orange: engineering; olive: pharmacy; light brown: business; lemon yellow: library science; light blue: education; peacock blue: international affairs; citron yellow: social work.

Throughout their long and proud history, colleges and universities have retained and cherished strong ties to their ceremonial roots. The faculties and graduates have gloried in the rich imagery and colorful panoply associated with commencement, one of the oldest continuing rituals in the Western world.

Excerpted from: A Guide to Academic Protocol

ETIQUETTE

Just a reminder that all graduates and attendees are asked to please respect one another and West Chester University, which has so graciously agreed to host Delaware County Community College’s Commencement.

The commencement ceremony is a most dignified event. Decorum and courtesy are very important for graduates and their guests. No air horns, balloons, bubbles, beach balls, or similar items are allowed. Please refrain from shouting, loud talking and rude behavior. Both graduates and attendees should remain seated during the reading of the graduates’ names. Photography is permitted from your seats only, but please be mindful of not blocking the view of others who are nearby.

After the ceremony, graduates will have the opportunity to purchase photos taken by a professional photographer contracted by the College.
